Specificity/Sen	sitivity	Endophilin-1 (E1E6Q) Rabbit mAb recognizes endogenous levels of total endophilin-1 protein.
Source / Purifi	cation	Monoclonal antibody is produced by immunizing animals with a synthetic peptide corresponding to residues surrounding Gly268 of human endophilin-1 protein.
Background		Endophilin proteins are part of a large family of Bin/Amphiphysin/Rvs (BAR) domain proteins that are involved in cell membrane remodeling (1). The endophilins are encoded by five genes, which produce endophilin A 1-3 and B 1-2 (2). Endophilins are involved in many cellular mechanisms, such as synaptic vesicle recycling, receptor trafficking, and membrane remodeling processes (2). Research studies indicate that endophilin 1 (endophilin A1, SH3GL2) can induce different membrane shapes (3) and participate in the morphogenesis of dendritic spines (4). Endophilin 1 is also involved in regulating blood brain barrier permeability via the EGFR-JNK pathway (5).
