Background

IL-33 (Interleukin-33, NF-HEV) is a nuclear cytokine that is part of the IL-1 family (1,2). Originally discovered as the 'nuclear factor from high endothelial venules,' it is widely expressed by endothelial cells as well as epithelial barrier tissues (1,5). IL-33 is involved in regulating type 2-associated innate immune responses (2,4). It is the ligand for ST2 which, along with IL-1RAcP, forms the IL-33R signaling complex (2,3). IL-33 functions as an alarmin upon cellular damage or stress, and is associated with allergic inflammation and asthma (5,6).

Endotoxin

Endotoxin levels are less than or equal to 1 EU / 1 µg mIL-33.

Purity

A greater than or equal to 90% purity was determined by SDS-PAGE.

Source / Purification

Recombinant mouse IL-33 was expressed in E. coli and is supplied in a lyophilized form.

Bioactivity

The bioactivity of recombinant mIL-33 was determined in a D10S cell proliferation assay. The ED₅₀ of each lot is less than or equal to 2 ng/ml.
